Product Description

About:

Bhut Jolokia Scientific Name Capsicum chinense Jacquin . Bhut Jolokia originates from the northeastern regions of India, particularly Assam, Nagaland, and Manipur. It is a key component of traditional cuisine in these regions and has gained international recognition for its intense heat.

The Bhut Jolokia pepper is typically small to medium-sized, with a wrinkled and uneven surface. The color ranges from green to orange or red as it matures, and it has a distinctive elongated shape. Bhut Jolokia held the Guinness World Record for the world's hottest chili pepper for a period. The Scoville Heat Units (SHU) for Bhut Jolokia can range from 800,000 to over 1,000,000, making it exceptionally spicy.
